(including Male Parent Figures)

Dr. Jerry G. Petroff from The College of New Jersey is conducting a study of fathers and other male parental figures of children with CHARGE Syndrome. The focus of this study is to identify key themes and issues around fathers' involvement in their child's health care, overall development and education settings. We want to learn more about how fathers of children with CHARGE Syndrome conceptualize their own involvement in their child's health, development, and education, as well as how satisfied they are with their current relationship with professionals.

PLEASE HELP us identify the concerns of fathers and ways in which we can support male parental figures by SIGNING UP up for a private confidential one-to-one interview (30-45 minutes). SIGN UP at the Conference Information Table or text Jerry personally at +01 856 577-2400 (this is for WhatsApp or regular text).
